

PLAYCE

Playce centers around the idea of creating an activity space. Areas are provided to accommodate different types of play for different age groups. A small playground is provided for younger children (age 2-5). In the southeast corner of the site, a half standard sized basketball court is provided. In contrast to shooting baskets in a driveway, the court provides an area that is more regulated. Areas for passive recreation are also included in this design. Adjacent to the playground there is a small shelter where people can sit at picnic tables to rest. An area of trees next to the basketball court provides a shaded grassy area. Areas along the fences are planted with a dense row of evergreen trees to enclose and buffer the site from neighboring homes.
